FROM DEAN CHAPMAN

Preliminary Spring, 1995 Schedule

The preliminary schedule for the Spring, 1995 semester is available outside the third floor cafeteria. Students who want scheduling advice or who have comments about the schedule should attend one of the schedule meetings on November 2 at 3:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. in Room 210. 1L students have no particular reason to attend, although they are welcome. I will meet with 1L's in the spring when the summer and fall semester schedules are distributed to discuss course selection and planning your legal education.

A few errors on the preliminary schedule have already been identified and additional ones are sure to be announced. Please note the following corrections:

- The Section 2 Property class will meet on MTh from 12:50 p.m. to 2:40 p.m. and on Tuesday, not Wednesday, from 1:55 p.m. to 2:50 p.m.

- The following seminar should be added to the preliminary schedule: Constitutional Limits of the State’s Taxing Power, Professor Richard Lieberman, Thursday, 4:00 p.m. to 5:50 p.m.

- Certificate in Intellectual Property - A proposal has recently been submitted to the Curriculum Committee to create a certificate program in intellectual property law, similar to the programs in environmental law and international law. However, the committee has not discussed the proposal yet and if the committee recommends it, it must be approved by the faculty. Approval is not likely by the time spring registration begins so the seminars listed under the non-existent Certificate in Intellectual Property Program will be available to any student who has taken the Patent Law prerequisite.

- Business Planning prerequisites - You don’t have to take Business Organizations twice as indicated on the schedule; the second Business Organizations should have been Taxation of Business Entities.

- Patent Law prerequisite - Patent Law is not a prerequisite for Patent Law as indicated on the Day Division schedule. The Patent Law prerequisite should have been listed for Patent Office Practice.

- Philosophical and Constitutional Issues in Intellectual Property Seminar prerequisites -- The prerequisite is any intellectual property course, not necessarily Patents.
The Legal Drafting class on the Evening Division grid on Wednesday at 6:00 p.m. was listed in error; there is no Legal Drafting class scheduled at that time.

Descriptions for New Courses

Course descriptions appear in the LAW SCHOOL BULLETIN. Descriptions for courses not listed in the BULLETIN will be published in the Registration Bulletin. Following are course descriptions not in the BULLETIN that have been received to date.

Health Law and Poverty
Michele Richardson, Tuesday, 4:00 p.m. - 5:50 p.m.

This course will consider the interplay between poverty and health care, and will consider the role of the law in developing solutions to the problems raised. Topics will include: an exploration of the legislative, constitutional, and philosophical bases for a legal "right" to basic health care services; the role of law in crafting responses to the duty/rights question including the development of the Medicaid program, and COBRA legislation; a comparative review of the approaches employed by key states; a substantive review of the barriers to providing health care services to the poor including access issues, and psychological barriers; and a consideration of several key problems that have direct health effects on individuals in poor communities, including infectious diseases, environmental hazards, and violence. Two credit hours.

Philosophical and Constitutional Issues in Intellectual Property Seminar
Malla Pollack, Thursday, 7:35 p.m. - 9:25 p.m.

This seminar focuses on choices. Our society has chosen to use property rights divided into categories such as patents, trademarks, copyrights, and trade secrets to control material which could be handled in many alternative ways. The class will discuss methods of making such choices; political, economic, and philosophical theories behind such choices; interaction of domestic and foreign choices; and practical and constitutional constraints on such choices. Possible issues include: the meaning of the Intellectual Property Clause; First Amendment concerns; tension between natural rights and contract theories; the relative importance of economics in making choices; the validity of using rights in intangibles to shape culture; the extent and speed with which intellectual property law should acknowledge changes in culture and business practices; the possible interactions of the Intellectual Property, Commerce, and Taking clauses of the Constitution; the impact of standing rules and legal procedure on actual control of intangibles; collective action problems. Material will include some cases, but the bulk of the reading will be theoretical material from inside and outside the traditional law library. Newspaper stories and advertisements will also be included. Students may have input into which issues will be discussed. Prerequisite: A student must have had at least one intellectual property course to enroll in this seminar. Grades will depend on creativity and work, not background.

Jurisprudence Seminar
Vincent J. Samar, Wednesday, 4:00 p.m. - 5:50 p.m.

As a science, jurisprudence seeks to understand the casual relations that describe the economics, ideological, political or social underpinnings of a system of laws. As a philosophy, jurisprudence seeks to unravel various conceptual and normative problems posed by the existence and practice of law. Since solutions to at least some of these philosophical issues are often presupposed with very little justification by jurisprudential science let alone the practice of law itself (as is often illustrated by so-called "hard" cases), this course will focus on jurisprudence as philosophy of law.
In this respect, the course will treat ideas related to the nature of law including its connection, if any, to morality, liberty, privacy, justice, responsibility and punishment as subjects in the philosophy of language, ethics, metaphysics, mind and action. It will also treat the question of what law should be and how it should be made and administered as parasitic on political philosophy. The course should be of value to soon-to-be lawyers who know well how to analogize novel cases to existing principles of law, by encouraging them to engage (at least where such analogies seem unavailing) in conceptual and normative analysis designed to understand more deeply the meaning of legal concepts and the justifications for the rights and duties subsumed under them. A seminar paper will be required in which students will be expected to show a richness of analytical ability and depth of understanding regarding some issue related to the course. Attendance is mandatory, although on rare occasions excuses will be accepted without penalty if circumstances warrant.

The required readings for the course are as follows: Joel Feinberg & Hyman Gross, PHILOSOPHY OF LAW; Vicent Samar, THE RIGHT TO PRIVACY: GAYS, LESBIANS AND THE CONSTITUTION; Alan Gewirth, The Basis and Content of Human Rights; Catherine MacKinnon, Defamation and Discrimination; Heidi Malm, Paid Surrogacy: Arguments and Responses; Robert Nozick, Distributive Justice; John Rawls, Fairness and Justice; Vincent Samar, Sources of Law: A Comment on the Relationship of Legal and Political Philosophy.

Pre-registration for the Illinois Bar Exam

Students who began in 1993 and who did pre-register with the Illinois Bar examiners by March 1, 1994, may register at any time prior to filing the bar exam application. However, the fee for registering after the March 1 deadline is $400 instead of $150.

Final Exams

Final exams for the fall semester are still many weeks away, but I have started receiving requests from students to reschedule their final exams for a variety of reasons. Please read Handbook §§ 7.2 and 7.3 which set forth the rules for the exam schedule and conflicts. Section 7.3 begins with the statement that "Students are expected to take examinations when scheduled, even though ill or inconvenienced. However, for serious illness or other extraordinary or compelling reason beyond the control of the student, an instructor may excuse a student from taking the exam at the scheduled time." A student recently requested to reschedule a final exam so he could spend more time with his family during the winter break. This is not the type of reason which would justify the rescheduling of a final exam.

Section 7.2 states: "A conflict does not exist if two exams are scheduled on the same day, but at different hours. A student will be deemed to have a conflict only if he/she has three exams scheduled consecutively." A Final Exam Reschedule Form should be used by a student seeking advance permission to reschedule a final exam. The student must set forth the extraordinary or compelling reason for the request on the form which must be approved by the instructor and the Associate Dean (me).

SPECIAL NOTICES

LADR! A Program for First Year Students

Litigation and Alternative Dispute Resolution is a program for students admitted to the law school for the 1994-95 academic year.

Information meetings will be on Wednesday, November 9 and November 16, in Room 590 at 3:00 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Becoming a lawyer takes more than sitting through three years of law school lectures. It involves more than learning how to cross-examine hostile witnesses, writing persuasive briefs, and talking to clients. Reading about subjects such as legal ethics or law practice management is not the same as learning about them from experience.

Chicago-Kent College of Law's Litigation and Alternative Dispute Resolution program, is different from anything at any other law school. Throughout the program you will learn legal doctrine, lawyering skills, and professional values, and work in Chicago-Kent's teaching law firm, supervised by clinical professors. who are expert practitioners and mentors. You will learn the art of lawyering through two years of intensive skills and clinical training. Your experience will teach you how to become a competent, ethical, socially responsible lawyer.

Thirty Chicago-Kent students will be admitted to the program each year based upon academic potential, law school performance, and reasons for entering the program. Only students who are currently first year students may apply for admission. Applications are due during the spring '94 semester on Friday, January 27, 1995. Faculty advisors will be assigned to each student in the program to help them tailor their course selection to their particular career interests. Each program graduate will be awarded a Juris Doctor degree and a Program Certificate.

For Further Information. Please attend the information meetings on Wednesday, November 9, or Wednesday November 16 at either 3:00 p.m. or 5:30 p.m. in Room 590. You may also contact Professor Gary Laser, Room 631, or pick up a brochure in Room 600. Applications will be available in early November. Applications are due on Friday, January 27, 1995.

From Prof. Vivien Gross, Director of SOS (Serving Our Society)

The SOS counselors attended the National Association for Public Interest Law (NAPIL) conference this weekend and managed to get loads of great new information about public interest law and renew their dedication and motivation! Please stop by to ask any questions about new volunteer opportunities, or just to find out more about NAPIL and the conference.

Also, here’s a mini-lecture for any interested SOS’ers: If you stop by the office or see a listing you like, remember that we are probably going to ask you for a resume (to send to prospective employers). Please try to bring it with you to the SOS office so we can quickly find you a great position! If you don’t have one done, don’t let that discourage you. Stop by Room 686 anyway, see what’s available, and talk with counselors Juli Gumina or Sharon Doherty; or email JGUMINA or SDOHERTY.

For the tryout, review Case File 8.11, State v. Fletcher and Morris, contained in the Mauet & Wolfson MATERIALS IN TRIAL ADVOCACY book. Be prepared to make a five-minute opening statement for any side you choose, conduct a five-minute direct and cross of the witnesses Edwards and Green, and deliver a five-minute final argument for any side you choose.

Six people will be selected. The trial team involves a substantial commitment of time, energy and priority -- including the time between semesters. Please do not try out unless you are willing to make that Registration for Spring, 1995 will begin on November 14, 1994. Except as set forth below, students will not be permitted to register if there is any outstanding tuition balance, including the payment due on November 1, 1994.

Please note that the Registration Policy will not be waived in order to allow a student to meet a registration deadline. Therefore, we urge you to allow yourself sufficient time in which to complete the necessary paperwork (it usually takes 2-3 days to process Petition requests for approval).

Procedure for Registering with an Outstanding Tuition Balance

A student will be allowed to register with an outstanding tuition balance only if he/she has been approved to receive one or more of the following loans for the Fall 1994 semester to pay the balance:

1. Stafford Loan
2. Perkins Loan
3. Law Access Loan (LAL) or Law Student Loan (LSL), and/or
4. other institutional loan/s (bank, etc.)

Students will not be allowed permission to register for any reason other than those listed above.

Students should complete the Petition to Register with an Unpaid Balance form in order to be considered for registration with a past balance. Petition forms may be picked up at the Registrar's Office, Suite 220, the Bursar's Office, Room 290, or from the rack outside of the Administration, Finance and CLE Office, Suite 265. Please submit application forms to the Office of the Assistant Dean of Administration, Finance and CLE, Suite 265.

2. Financial Aid’s verification of the loan amounts which are forthcoming (inserted and initialed by Kari Smith or Deb Hill on the petition form).

FACULTY NEWS

Professor Alberto Benitez and student Ellina Khotimlyansky recently won the first contested case Professor Benitez has had before the immigration court since joining the Chicago-Kent clinical faculty this fall. On October 24, Federal Immigration Judge Robert D. Vinnikoor granted the political asylum petition of a Bulgarian client represented by Ms. Khotimlyansky, a second-year student in the clinic’s immigration section. The client, who INS sought to deport to her native country, alleged she had been previously persecuted in Bulgaria on account of her nationality, race, and political opinion, and she also alleged she had a well founded fear of future persecution, on the same grounds, if she were deported to her country. Ms. Khotimlyansky conducted the direct examination, redirect, and gave the closing statement, as well as entered documents into evidence and handled evidentiary objections. In his decision, even though explicitly rejecting the client’s fear of future persecution, the judge adopted Ms. Khotimlyansky’s argument, relying on caselaw, that he could grant the application even if there was only past persecution established, provided the past persecution was "atrocious", and humanitarian grounds warranted a favorable exercise of discretion. The INS trial attorney said he will not appeal the judge’s decision.

Professor David Gerber has been extended an invitation to be the first recipient of the University of Munich’s newly established chair for visiting scholars. He will visit the University of Munich for one semester (November 1994 through early March 1995), teaching comparative law, legal methods, comparative legal cultures, and an introduction to U.S. civil procedure.

Professor Philip Hablutzel gave two presentations at the 1994 Education Seminar of the Illinois Paralegal Association on October 20-21 in Chicago. His first presentation was on not-for-profit law, and included governance issues and taxation matters. The second was on the various legal forms which might be selected for doing business in Canada, United Kingdom, Germany, Mexico and Japan. Several of his former students from Chicago-Kent were also speakers: Thomas Demetrio, Judge Susan Snow, Barbara Holman, and Mary Ellen Cherry.

Professor Marty Malin has accepted an invitation to present a paper at a symposium entitled, "Unemployment Compensation: Continuity and Change," to be held March 30-31, 1995, at the University of Michigan Law School in Ann Arbor. His paper is entitled, Unemployment Compensation in a Time of Increasing Work-Family Conflicts. The symposium is co-sponsored by the University of Michigan Law School and the U.S. Department of Labor’s Advisory Council on Unemployment Compensation. Professor Malin’s paper, along with the others presented at the conference, will be published in the UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN JOURNAL OF LAW REFORM.

Professor Richard Wright will be on leave for the Spring 1995 semester. He has been elected a Visiting Fellow at Brasenose College and a Visiting Scholar at the Centre for Socio-Legal Studies at the University of Oxford, in England, for Oxford’s Hilary and Trinity terms in 1995. In addition to engaging in research, he has been asked to co-teach two seminars that are part of the Philosophical Foundations of the Common Law paper in Oxford’s B.C.L. advanced graduate law degree program. He will join Professor John Finnis and Steve Smith in teaching a two-term seminar on "Philosophical Foundations of the Law of Tort," and he will join Professor Tony Honore and John Gardner in teaching a one-term seminar on "Causation and Responsibility."
The second week of October, Professor Mickie Voges attended the RIAO 94 Conference on Intelligent Multimedia Information Retrieval Systems and Management at which current research in information retrieval was presented by participants from around the world. The latest developments in artificial intelligence, automated language processing, and automated indexing were discussed. Professor Voges was the national Program Chair for the 1994 Annual Meeting of the American Society for Information Science which was held in Alexandria, Virginia, October 16-20. The theme of the meeting was the "Economics of Information." Professor Voges introduced the keynote speaker, Anne Wells Branscomb, author of the book WHO OWNS INFORMATION?. Professor Voges spoke at sessions on collaboration and collaborative mechanisms (such as software, video conferencing, and the like) and on copyright issues. The copyright session was taped to provide the basis of a position paper for ASIS.

Spring Registration for In-House Programs

Spring 1995 Applications Available in Room 600
Due Tuesday, November 8

Students who would like to learn how to practice law while they are in law school should register for the in-house clinical education program, "Law Offices". Applications are now available for spring. The spring applications are due November 8.

Students may enroll in Law Offices after they have completed their first year of law school (current first years may not apply for Spring 1995). To be eligible to enroll, ALL students must complete and return a completed Law Offices application (with the exception of the LADR students, who must take Clinic II). Applications must be turned in to the Law Offices receptionist in Suite 600 by the deadline.

Students who have taken or are currently taking Law Offices (called Continuing Law Offices Students) and who submit their applications by the due date will be given preference if availability permits. Next, priority will be given to the top ten students who did not turn down a place for Fall 1994, who were on the waiting list in the division they have marked as first choice, and who submitted their spring application by the due date. Other new students who have submitted their applications by the due date will be selected in the Law Offices lottery.

The in-house programs are comprised of two components. One is a graded classroom component for one credit. The other is an ungraded three credit fieldwork class. For the fieldwork component students work in practice groups on client cases or similar projects assigned to them by a supervising attorney. It also includes practice group lectures, supervising attorney conferences, section meetings, and various interview client experiences.

There are six in-house practice groups from which to choose - employment discrimination/civil rights with some general practice, criminal defense, commercial litigation, transactions (non litigation), immigration, and Federal tax litigation.

For more information, you may talk to the clinical professors who supervise the various practice groups - Professors Gonzalez (Room 629), Norton (Room 623), and Schwartz (Room 611) for employment discrimination/civil rights with some general practice; Professors Kadish (Room 613), Kling (Room 625), and
The Record

October 31, 1994

Thomas (Room 609) for criminal defense; Professor Smith (Room 690) for commercial litigation; Professor Lemberis (Room 688) for transactions (non litigation); Professor Benitez (Room 627) for immigration; and Professors Brown (Room 615) and Livingston (Room 694) for Federal tax litigation.

ADVANCED EXTERNSHIP PROGRAM

Spring 1995, For Third Year Students

Do you wish to develop your legal skills? Gain practical legal experience in a specialized area of law with a corporation, firm or government agency? Make yourself more marketable to prospective employers upon graduation? If you have answered "yes" to any of the above questions, consider applying for the Advanced Externship Program for Spring Semester 1995.

The Advanced Externship Program is a four-credit hour program consisting of a 3 credit-hour fieldwork and a 1 credit-hour classroom component. The program is open to students in their last two semesters of law school. For the fieldwork component, an extern is placed in a private or public, civil or criminal practice and is required to work a minimum of 15 hours a week at his/her designated placement. Externs interested in civil law may select to work under the supervision of general counsel in major corporations or under the supervision of designated teaching lawyers in well-known firms or specific government agencies. Externs may specialize in such diverse legal areas as tax, commodities, securities, corporate, health care, medical malpractice, and general corporate law, etc. Those interested in criminal law may select to work with designated supervising lawyers at the States Attorney’s Office, Public Defender’s or the U.S. Attorney’s office. Many externships may offer the externs opportunities to obtain a 711 license and appear in court. The classroom component consists of a 1 hour class weekly, focusing on various aspects of today’s practice of law and on the externs’ fieldwork experiences.

If you are interested in learning more about externship opportunities or in applying for the program, please see Professor Vivien Gross in Room 617.

Applications are available in the Law Offices. They must be turned in to Professor Gross by 4:00 p.m. on Friday, November 4, 1994. All applicants must have scheduled an interview with Professor Gross prior to turning in their applications. Slots are limited. In the event qualified applicants outnumber available slots, students with at least one semester of Law Offices will be given priority.

ADVANCED EXTERNSHIP PROGRAM - TAX PLACEMENT

We have an Advanced Externship Program federal tax placement available with a small specialty firm for the spring 1995 semester. The supervising attorney is a member of our Graduate Program in Taxation faculty.

This placement is open to students in their last two semesters of law school who have completed Personal Income Tax. Preference will be given to students who have completed or who are now enrolled in the Tax Division of the Law Offices.
The Advanced Externship Program is a four-credit hour program consisting of a three credit-hour fieldwork component and a one credit-hour classroom component. For the fieldwork component, an extern is required to work a minimum of fifteen hours a week at his/her designated placement. The classroom component consists of a one hour class weekly, focusing on various aspects of today's practice of law and on the externs' fieldwork experiences.

If you are interested in being considered for this Advanced Externship Program federal tax placement, please see Professor Gerald Brown in Room 615 no later than Thursday, November 3, 1994.

Students wishing to receive faculty counseling must submit an application by Wednesday, November 9th at 8:00 p.m. to the Career Services Office.

NEWS FROM THE CENTER FOR LAW AND COMPUTERS

Internet Information - USENET

We encourage everyone to try out USENET. USENET is a "collection" of over 9,000 discussions on almost any topic. To access USENET, look under "Legal Research", then "Internet Services". Choose the "Usenet" option. You will be connected into the system and placed in the Chicago-Kent "Welcome Group". There are messages in this discussion group that explains how to "subscribe" to groups, read messages, post messages, and other helpful tasks.

USENET is not email. You will not get any mail sent to your mailbox so you need not worry about too many messages. You have to go "into" USENET and you can read only those messages on only those topics that interest you. Try it out, we think you will like it.

Internet Information - Correction

Last week's Record had a typo in the address used to find a person's email address. The incorrect address was: mail-server@rtfm@mit.edu. The correct address should be:

teleport@rtfm.mit.edu

Notice the second @ sign should be a period. We apologize if anyone had trouble with this service.

To repeat the example from last week, with the correct address:

For example, suppose you wanted to find Larry Donahue's email address. You would send the following command to "mail-server@rtfm.mit.edu":

send usenet-addresses/donahue

You will receive a rather large list of people with the name of "Donahue" and their email address. You can search through that list for Larry's name!

Please note that only people who have posted messages to USENET will be found. If you have other Internet questions, please send a message to HELPDESK.

Some Lab Guidelines

The following are some of the ways we try to keep our facilities available and in good condition for the Chicago-Kent community. Please try and follow them.

Students may only save their work to the A: or B: drive. Students may not save their work on the hard drive (C:) or any network drive.

Copying of software (except where specifically permitted) is not allowed and is in fact a violation of the law.

Food and drink are not permitted in any of the computer labs or concentration areas.
Email should not be used for mass mailings. If you have a message that you think is of general interest to the Chicago-Kent community there are other ways to distribute that information. (Some of them are The Record (submitted to Jane McBride), broadcast messages (submitted to Jane McBride) (Record and broadcast messages must serve a school function, messages of a personal nature or serving a private interest cannot be posted), USENET discussion groups (located under "Legal Research" then "Internet Services"), and the Kentnet Classifieds (located under "Kentnet Services").)

Students should log out from their accounts when they are done using the computers. Not only does the next student have to wonder if the machine is still in use but it keeps others from accessing your account, specifically your email.

WestLaw Representatives

Your WESTLAW reps are Brian Gill (BGILL), Cynthia Tackett (CTACKETT), Tim Engling (TENGLING), and Shalla Hyderi (SHYDERI). They will be in the computer lab (Room 700) in the library or right outside the room at one of the tables during the following hours. You may also contact them via email for assistance in using WESTLAW.

United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit

Tuesday, November 15, 1994
Governor Richard B. Ogilvie Auditorium
Please be seated at 3:45 p.m.

The top two oral advocates in the competition will have the rare opportunity to argue while in law school before a panel of Seventh Circuit judges. Both will have previously argued in three rounds of the competition. The case presents an equal protection and First Amendment challenge to the government’s "don’t ask, don’t tell" policy concerning the service of gay men and lesbians in the armed services. Our plaintiff, Joshua Robert Dalton, declared his sexual orientation on the ABC News program, Nightline, as did two actual members of the armed services earlier this year. He was discharged from the Navy after a distinguished 14-year career. The government defends the policy on the grounds that individuals who have a propensity to engage in homosexual sodomy threaten the morale, good order and discipline, and unit cohesion necessary to an effective military.

Please join us for this unprecedented visit of a panel of federal court of appeals judges and watch two of Chicago-Kent’s most successful students argue one of the most important issues affecting our society today. Please be seated by 3:45 p.m.
