FROM DEAN MATASAR

Spring has finally sprung. Flowers are in bloom. Jordan is back! And, the annual Spring right of passage is upon us--final exams. In the pressure of exam week, we often come to think of examinations purely as the means to an end--getting high enough grades to get a job. Exams are a means to an end, but not the one that first comes to mind. Intense study, directed to the single-minded pursuit of understanding a course, leads to knowledge, synthesis, and mastery. That is a most valuable educational enterprise. May you all achieve your fondest wishes (or at least not reach your worst fears). Learn well and good luck!

I am very happy to report that three new faculty members and one returning visiting faculty member will be joining the law school next Fall. Also, one visiting faculty member will be joining the faculty for the fall semester only. You will notice their courses listed in the registration bulletin for the fall semester, and the following is some biographical information about them:

Visiting Assistant Professor Patrick Cotter was a Visiting Assistant Professor at Chicago-Kent during 1993-1994. Professor Cotter received his law degree from New York University School of Law and served for four years as a senior staff attorney with the Legal Aid Society of New York, Criminal Division. He subsequently served as senior law assistant to New York State Supreme Court Justice Leonard P. Rienzi. Professor Cotter spent three years as special attorney with the U.S. Department of Justice, Organized Crime Strike Force and two years as Assistant U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of New York. He was responsible for the prosecution of numerous organized crime cases and was a member of the trial team for U.S. vs. John Gotti.

Visiting Professor Paul Finkelman received a PH.D. from the University of Chicago in 1976, working in American Legal History. He was a fellow of Harvard Law School in 1982-83 and has visited at Texas Law School and Brooklyn Law School, where he coached a moot court team that took first place in Spring Competition at William and Mary. Professor Finkelman is the author of more than half a dozen books and over fifty scholarly articles. His book SLAVERY, IN THE COURTROOM won the Joseph Andrews Prize from the American Association of Law Libraries. His most recent articles appeared in STANFORD LAW REVIEW and SUPREME COURT REVIEW. He has twice been a symposium editor of the CHICAGO-KENT LAW REVIEW. In March 1995, he received the Historian of the Year Award from the Virginia Social Science Association. Professor Finkelman is a scholar on the law of race relations and American Legal History.

Assistant Professor Rafael Gely received his Ph.D., Labor and Industrial Relations in 1992 and his law degree in 1987 from the University of Illinois at Champaign. He earned his bachelor's degree (Phi Kappa Phi) in business administration from Kansas State University. Professor Gely was the 1986-87 First National Bank of Chicago Scholar award recipient and was presented with the American Jurisprudence Price Award in 1987. He has published numerous articles, papers, and books.

Assistant Professor Sarah Harding is a 1989 graduate of Dalhousie University with a bachelors degree with honors from McGill University. She recently earned her LL.M. degree from Yale Law School and is currently working on her D.Phil. from Oxford University. Professor Harding was awarded the Rhodes Scholarship and the Bamford Memorial Award for academic achievement and contribution to the law school in 1989. In 1991, she taught a summer seminar course in Oxford, England on Law and Society to international students. Professor Harding was a research assistant to Professor Jules Coleman of Yale Law School in 1992. She also co-authored a paper with Professor Coleman entitled Citizenship, the Demands of Justice, and the Moral Relevance of Political Borders.

Visiting Assistant Professor Jerold R. Lavin received his J.D. in June of 1985 from Harvard Law School. He joined Winston & Strawn's commercial law department in March 1986, which later moved to Ross & Hardies. Professor Lavin then joined Gottlieb and Schwartz in 1992 which dissolved, then formed Lavin & Waldon, P.C. with two other attorneys where he has continued business law/commercial litigation practice. He is an adjunct professor at Loyola University Law School teaching legal writing and research, appellate writing and oral advocacy. Professor Lavin speaks Russian, Spanish and some German.

As the year comes to a close, let me close as well. Thanks to everyone for a wonderful and productive year. This is an extraordinary school; you are an energetic student body. Success on your exams. Have a great summer.

Professionalism Day Pop Quiz: True or False?

Rumor #1: The powers that be at Chicago-Kent believe that Chicago-Kent students need remedial help compared to graduates of other law schools.

Rumor #2: Students attending Professionalism Day will be drilled on etiquette and charm issues.

Rumor #3: Professionalism Day will be a waste of time for students who already have professional work experience.

If you answered false to each of the questions above, you've aced the exam. Contrary to popular belief, Miss Manners is not visiting the law school on August 21st.

There seems to be a lot of confusion about what is happening on August 21st. Let's talk about the truth:

Truth #1: Professionalism Day provides sophisticated programming for savvy students to get a head start in their legal career, and is not "remedial" in any sense of the word.

All programs will be presented by legal practitioners, who will discuss the skills and share the information students need to navigate the difficult issues that face all new attorneys.
Law schools are under constant criticism from practitioners who agree that today's law graduates, no matter what their alma mater, need additional information and skills as they enter the legal field. They believe law schools do a poor job of bridging the gap between legal education and the realities of law practice. Professionalism Day is a cutting edge program designed to address that gap. As the first law school to implement such a program, we've noticed that our competition is keeping a very close eye on our progress!

Truth #2: The programming will provide practical information applicable to law practice in a variety of settings as well as to law related careers. To make sure our students receive the most useful information, the curriculum was developed to reflect the suggestions of practitioners and faculty members.

Among the questions we'll address on Professionalism Day:

- What do employers expect of new attorneys?
- How can you make yourself invaluable to your employer?
- How are starting salaries/associate salaries/partner salaries determined?
- Who has the power in a legal bureaucracy?
- How do you prepare for a performance review?
- How are entry-level attorneys reviewed in different legal environments?
- How do you manage your workload? When and how do you say "no" to an assignment?
- How do you get "good work" from the "right" people?
- What partnership tracks exist and what are the financial responsibilities of partnerships?
- What do you do when you make a mistake?
- How do you win the confidence of your supervisor?

Truth #3: Professionalism Day programming will be valuable to those students with professional work experience as well as to recent college graduates.

Students with professional work experience have numerous traits employers value, including maturity and sound judgment. The sessions offered during Professionalism Day will build on those traits and provide invaluable insights into inner workings of the legal profession.

Extra credit question: Why is Chicago-Kent substituting Professionalism Day for the first day of class?

Answer: We believe very strongly that this is an addition to our academic offerings that will give you a competitive edge and that it will result in value added to your education.

For additional details about Professionalism Day as well as registration information, see the Professionalism Day section of the Record. If you have questions or concerns about the programming, contact Assistant Deans Lisa Abrams or Julie Fenton.

FROM DEAN CHAPMAN

The end of another academic year is fast approaching; the (grueling?) first for many of you, the last (finally?) for a third of you and the 24th (rewarding!) one for me. This year was especially gratifying for me because the students presented me with the Ralph Brill award, which I sincerely appreciate. I wish you success on your final exams. Good luck to graduating seniors on the bar exam and on the beginning of your legal careers; I’ll see you on June 11th. I hope everyone has a wonderful summer.

Course Description for Prof. Nahmod’s Constitutional Torts Course (Summer Session)

The course description for Prof. Nahmod’s Constitutional Torts/Section 1983 summer course is attached to this Record.

Residency Requirement for Senior Students

Day Division students will be considered to be “in residence” if they take ten credit hours in either or both of the two semesters immediately preceding their graduation.

Class Days

Regular classes meet through Monday, May 1, 1995. On Tuesday, May 2, 1995, only Friday classes meet; this is the Good Friday make-up day.

Student Evaluations

If you have not had the opportunity to complete a faculty evaluation questionnaire for one or more of your instructors by the end of this week, please obtain an evaluation form from Barbara Washington in room 815 or from my office, Room 320. After you complete it, put it in mailbox #99 in the College Service Center.

Summer Session Class Assignments

If you are enrolled in a summer session class, you should check the Registrar’s bulletin board periodically after May 8 for summer class assignments. Because the summer session is so short, many instructors expect students to have read the assignment for the first night of class.

Fall, 1995 Class Assignments

A letter will be mailed to the permanent home address of all continuing students with the initial class assignments for the Fall, 1995 semester around August 1. If you want the letter mailed to another address, please email kdenard and advise her of your summer mailing address.

FROM THE REGISTRAR

FALL REGISTRATION INFORMATION

Tuition Payments for Fall Semester

Within the next two weeks, you will receive a letter from Julie Collins, the university Bursar, with information and an application to participate in a new payment plan the university adopted. If you do not receive a letter by May 15, please obtain the information from the law school bursar’s office.
Additional Changes to Fall Courses

The following changes were posted last week: the Law of Slavery seminar will require only one paper, not several papers; Gaming Law will not have a final exam, but a few writing projects during the semester.

Waiting Lists

As mentioned in the registration bulletin, waiting lists are not maintained for courses. If a course was closed during registration and a seat opens, it will be broadcast on email and posted in the registrar’s office. Students may enroll in the course on a first-come basis. The Program Notice you will receive may indicate that you were placed on a waiting list for some courses. That simply means the course was closed when your form was processed; there are no waiting lists.

PROGRAM CHANGES

You may drop a course at any time after registration by submitting a signed Registration Change form to the Registrar’s office. Evening students may see their fall schedules in the Registrar’s office on Monday. A list of closed courses will be posted on the Registrar’s bulletin board.

Add/drop day

You may drop a course and/or add an open course by submitting an Add/Drop form to the Registrar’s office on Add/Drop Day according to the schedule below. The Add/Drop forms will be processed randomly in the same priority order as specified for the registration forms. Important: you must put your correct priority code in the upper left corner of your Add/Drop form.

Evening Division Students

All evening students should submit their Add/Drop forms by tomorrow, Tuesday, April 25, at 6:00 p.m.

SPECIAL NOTICES

Selection Process and Academic Requirements

for the Chicago-Kent Moot Court Honor Society

There are two methods of selection to the Chicago-Kent Moot Court Honor Society. The first involves participation in the Charles Evans Hughes Moot Court Competition, which is administered each spring semester by the Legal Writing Program in conjunction with the Ilana Diamond Rovner Program in Appellate Advocacy (the academic program in which Moot Court members participate). Students who (i) advance to and argue in the final (third) round of the Hughes Competition in the first year in law school, and (ii) earn a B+ or an A as their final grade in Legal Writing II, and (iii) have completed all courses required of them as first-year students with a cumulative GPA for those courses as of the end of the spring semester not less than 2.750, will receive invitations to join the Society. A student who argues in the final round, but only because he or she was an alternate replacing an original finalist who could not argue, is not eligible for this method of selection.

Students also may be selected based upon their performance in the Moot Court Honor Society’s Summer Candidacy Program, which is separate from the Charles Evans Hughes Competition and is held every summer from early July to mid-August. Each student participating in the summer program will be required to write an appellate brief and present two oral arguments (one on each side of the case). The brief score will count as 50% of each student’s total score and each of the two oral arguments will count as 25% of the total. Members will be selected from Summer Program participants on the basis of that total score, subject to the provision that each eligible candidate has a 2.750 cumulative GPA as of the end of the immediately preceding spring semester. Students need not have earned a B+ or A in Legal Writing II to compete in the Summer Candidacy Program. Nor is their previous performance in the Hughes Competition relevant to their eligibility or results in the Summer Competition. The only grade requirement for participation in the Summer Program is that students have a cumulative GPA of 2.750 inclusive of all spring grades.

Students who participate in the summer candidacy program may not know their spring grades and cumulative GPA until sometime after the summer program is underway. These students are responsible for checking their own GPA with the Registrar’s office. If current cumulative GPAs are not available prior to the due date for the brief, students may nonetheless submit the brief; however, if a student’s GPA proves to be below the minimum when spring-semester grades have been included, that student will not be eligible for membership in the year ahead, regardless of the merits of the brief submitted. The Director of the Rovner Program will confirm with the Registrar that students have met the GPA requirement before announcing membership selections. Any Chicago-Kent student with a 2.750 GPA who has at least two semesters in residence remaining before graduation may participate in the Summer Candidacy Program.
The summer candidacy problem generally is made available to students in the week following the July 4th holiday. Students are given approximately four weeks to prepare and submit the brief. Oral arguments are generally held on the Friday, Saturday, and (if necessary) Sunday immediately preceding the first day of classes for continuing students, leaving students approximately two weeks after the due date of the brief to prepare for oral argument. Students must be in Chicago for those arguments and no exceptions will be made to that requirement. Results are announced within two days following the last day of oral argument. The number of membership invitations issued based upon the summer program is dependent in part on the number of invitations issued and accepted based on the Hughes Competition. The total number of new members of the Society in any year will be approximately 35, including those selected from both the Hughes Competition and the Summer Candidacy Program, as well as any students holding eligible deferments from a previous year. In the past three years approximately 15 students were selected each summer for membership based on the summer program.

Students need not be in Chicago to write the summer candidacy brief; if a student provides a self-addressed 8 1/2" x 11" envelope to the President of the Society during the month of May, the problem will be mailed to that student on the day on which it is made available in Chicago. Briefs may be submitted by mail provided that they are postmarked no later than the due date of the brief, and only a United States post office cancelled post mark or an overnight delivery service mark will be accepted for determination of the mailing date.

All members of the Society, regardless of their method of selection, are required to enroll in the two-credit, fall-semester appellate advocacy course in their first semester in the Society, generally the fall semester of their second year in school. Students should not register for appellate advocacy until they are certain that they have been selected for membership, and may avail themselves of the drop/add period in August to do so. Upon completion of the appellate advocacy course, students are eligible to represent Chicago-Kent in interscholastic competitions throughout the United States. Selection of team members is based in large part on performance in the appellate advocacy course, the centerpiece of which is Chicago-Kent’s Ilana Diamond Rovner Appellate Advocacy Competition. Approximately half of the students in the appellate advocacy course will be selected for teams that will compete in the spring semester.

Members of interscholastic teams receive one academic credit for any competition in which they participate. Students may receive toward graduation a maximum of five academic credits for participation in moot court, inclusive of the two Appellate Advocacy credits. The two Appellate Advocacy credits must be taken for a grade; credits for interscholastic competitions are graded on a pass/fail basis. Successful completion of Appellate Advocacy exempts students from the two-credit Advanced Research course requirement. Students may not register for Appellate Advocacy and Legal Drafting during the same semester.

New members must start in the fall. Second-year evening students, new members of the law review, and other students with compelling reasons may sometimes defer their membership in the Society for one year. In the past, many students have found it possible to participate successfully in both Law Review and Moot Court concurrently. In academic year 1994-1995, at least six students were participating in both organizations. Any student wishing to defer must notify the Director of the Rovner Program (Professor Grinker) prior to the beginning of fall semester. Deferral is subject to approval. During the time of deferral, students are not members of the Society and must indicate that fact in any reference to the Society in connection with a job application. It is permissible, however, to indicate, "Selected for Moot Court Honor Society (Membership Deferred until Fall of 1996)."
A member of the Executive Board of the Society will visit each first-year section to answer questions during the last week of classes in spring semester. The Society wishes all candidates for membership the best of luck!

Attention: Students Who Deferred Moot Court Honor Society Membership

Students who were invited to join the Moot Court Honor Society, and therefore participate in the Ilana Diamond Rovner Program in Appellate Advocacy, to begin in the fall of 1994, and who indicated to Professor Grinker that they wished to defer their membership until the fall of 1995, must register for Appellate Advocacy and inform Professor Grinker by email of their intention of picking up their membership before the end of classes this semester. If you do not do so, your deferment will expire as of June 1 and your place in the Rovner Program will be made available to another interested student.

Law Review Summer Candidacy Program

The Law Review will hold an informational meeting on Wednesday, April 26th at 3:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. to discuss the procedures for this year's Law Review summer write-on competition. Both meetings will be held in Room 170. The program will be open to current first and second year day and evening division students who meet certain threshold GPA requirements. We will provide more details at the meeting, including the final eligibility requirements. All students interested in the program are encouraged to attend!

Change of Dates for International Moot Court Tryouts

In order to avoid conflict with the summer write-on competition for Appellate Advocacy/Moot Court, the try-out dates for the International Law Moot Court traveling teams have been pushed back. We want to give as many people as possible the opportunity to try out for the moot court of their choice. The new key dates are as follows:

- Monday, August 7: problem and instructions distributed
- Tuesday, September 5: briefs due
- September 8-16: approximate dates for oral arguments — exact dates TBA

Please disregard the dates listed in the information sheets handed out at the recent meetings — but hold onto them for reference on society eligibility and general tryout information. Additional instructions specific to the tryouts will accompany the problem when it is distributed on August 7. If you have any questions in the meantime, please contact JLABKON, MSPANGLE, BGILL, or SKHAN. We apologize for any confusion, and wish everyone a great summer and best of luck.

From Prof. Bernstein

1. PAPER AUTHORS. On January 30 I announced in The Record my availability to help students prepare papers for publication, under certain conditions. If you answered that announcement, please get in touch with me to re-declare or revise your plans to pursue publication (kind of like reconfirming an airplane reservation) as some papers and proposals may be somewhat submerged in my office.

2. PROFESSIONAL RESPONSIBILITY, Summer 1995. Watch your email for personalized assignments. We will be using an "on call" method of class participation, and 20 of you will need to be (even) more prepared than your classmates on our first day.

This Week’s Tutorial

Recently, the United Nations has been in the news almost every day because of its sponsorship of international conferences and its peace monitoring activities. One of the largest depositories of UN documents outside New York City is right here in the Library of International Relations at Chicago-Kent. We would like to tell you about the documents issued by the UN General Assembly.

This week, from April 24-30, the Reference Staff of the Library will be offering tutorials on UN General Assembly documents.

Each tutorial will last about 20 minutes and will be given as we walk around the 8th floor to point out the documents, such as the Resolutions.

You don’t have to sign up in advance for these tutorials; just come to the Reference Desk area at the times listed on library bulletin board. If you have any comments about the topics of the tutorials or the times scheduled, contact Lenore Glanz (email:LGLANZ).

United Nations Information on the Internet

In conjunction with the tutorials being offered this week, we would also like to encourage students to find United Nations information on the Internet.
Using the WWW browsers available through the KentNet menu (Lynx, Netscape, Cello) students can go to the following address in order to locate U.N. information including full-text of some reports and documents:

http://www.undcp.or.at/unlinks.html

If there are questions about accessing or using this site, please feel free to ask the reference librarians.

Exams on LOIS

Copies of previous years’ exams are available on LOIS. Use STUDENT, STUDENT as the login and password to print exams to the Document Center. Exams on LOIS are current through Fall 1994, but remember, LOIS only has a copy of an exam if the professor has provided it.

NEWS FROM THE CENTER FOR LAW AND COMPUTERS

Backup Your Files

!Comic strip showing a bucket being filled with water labeled "Everything," while the other bucket is empty.

Copyright 1994 Tribune Media Services

Even though the semester is almost over, it is never too late to learn good computing habits. Always make a backup copy of the files you are working on. And make this backup on a second disk! Imagine what would happen if 2 days before your final the disk with your only copy of your outline gets corrupted. Or maybe you lose the disk. Play it safe, backup your data.

Civil Procedure Tutorials Available For Home Use

Professors Steinman’s and Stewart’s Civil Procedure tutorials can now be downloaded for home use. When you choose the CIVIL PROCEDURE option under CLASSES there is an option to download the files for home use.

To install the tutorial at home download the file from Kentnet. Go to the directory on your home machine where you want to place the tutorials, and type A:\RUNME (or B:\RUNME depending on the drive letter). The program will place the files in that directory. You will need about 2.2 Megs of free space on your hard drive.
To run the tutorial, enter Windows and go to the FILE | RUN menu. Run the file called CIV_PRO.EXE located in the directory where you placed the files. Enjoy.

Virus Alert

Do you have a VIRUS on your disk? The Center for Law and Computers has installed a special computer in the front of Lab 700 that can remove most viruses from your disks. Put the infected disk in the drive and press any key; follow the instructions on the menu. After you have cleaned your disk, let the machine reboot and re-check your disk. If it still has a virus after you have done all this, email HELPDESK. Kentnet computers lock out disks that are infected with a virus. With your help, we can make computer viruses a distant memory here at Chicago-Kent.

CLASS and Computer Center Staff Work the Helpdesk

A schedule has been posted by the Helpdesk in Lab 700. CLASS members staff the helpdesk weekdays during the days and evenings. Additionally, staff from the Center will fill in gaps in the schedule. If you have an email problem, word processing problem, or just general questions about computers, make your first stop the Helpdesk in 700!

Remember, you should email HELPDESK about general problems or questions about computers. CLASS and Center staff check HELPDESK throughout the week, including weekends and evenings!

Check Chicago-Kent’s World Wide Web For Late Breaking News

Chicago-Kent’s Web pages are always being modified and links to new WWW sites are added every day. In addition, as we come across interesting sites, we will give you the WWW address. The home page of the Nando Times has posted very recent articles on the recent bombing in Oklahoma City. Check out these articles at:

http://www.nando.net/newsroom/nt/nando.html

The paper is collecting other links on the Web to additional information.

To enter the Web, EXIT TO WINDOWS from Kentnet. In the internet program group run the Netscape icon. Type in the above address in the Location box and press enter.

WestLaw Representatives

Your WestLaw reps are Cynthia Tackett (CTACKETT) and Shalla Hyderi (SHYDERI). They will be in the computer lab (Room 700) in the library or right outside the room at one of the tables during the following hours. You may also contact them via email for assistance in using WestLaw.

National Association of Environmental Law Societies Conference

The Eighth Annual NAELS Conference was held in Boston from March 16th to March 18th. Several schools sent ELS members to represent them, with ELS’s being represented from as far away as Florida State. Chicago-Kent had the largest representation of any school attending, with 10 students, 1L’s-3L’s. Opening remarks were made by Douglas Foy, President of the Conservation Law Foundation. We then broke into panel discussions on such topics as Archeological Resource Protection Law, Deregulation of Electric Utilities and Environmental Justice.
The lively atmosphere of celebrating St. Patrick’s Day in Boston provided ample opportunity to meet with ELS members from across the nation. Dave Pantos, a 3L at Indiana University, had the novel idea creating a computer generated “world-wide-web” in order to keep environmentally interested students all over the country in contact with each other throughout the year. ELS’s were also able to inform each other of upcoming conferences, such as the one held by the University of Wisconsin-Madison at the beginning of April.

The second day provided a workshop entitled “Breaking the Log Jam: How to Energize an ELS so That It Actually Does Things!” The workshop centered on getting students involved. All the schools had a chance to brainstorm on what has and has not worked at increasing membership and involvement. Some ideas included having “brown bag lunches,” where speakers talk in a very informal setting, drives for buying pollution credits, and writing articles for environmental journals. The workshop leaders placed an emphasis on leaving a legacy for future members and potential members of the ELS’s. Environmental Law Societies must be future oriented in order to leave something for others to remember.

The future of NAELS was carried on into the business meeting held over lunch. It was at this time that ELS’s could make bids for the conference to come to their school the following year. Although Chicago-Kent was unable to bring the conference to Chicago in 1996, we were chosen as the newsletter school. Chicago-Kent has the responsibility of informing the other chapters what went on in the past conference and what is forthcoming in the year ahead. Hopefully, Chicago-Kent will be able to convince those going to next years NAELS convention (at Florida State) to bring the conference to Chicago in 1997. After finishing the business meeting, panels met to discuss the toxic cleanup of federal lands and the current legislation moving through Congress regarding the Endangered Species Act and takings.

Our final evening was capped off by a banquet at the Tremont House Hotel. The keynote speaker was Keith Lang is the Deputy Chief of Staff to U.S. Senator John H. Chaffee, Chairman of the Environmental Public Works Committee. Lang’s informative speech addressed the need to become involved in the current proposed legislation flying through congress. He particularly focused on H.R. 9, which requires a cost/benefit analysis for all environmental legislation as well as the possibility for effective new environmental lawyers to become informed and address the issues currently in Congress.

Constitutional Torts/Section 1983

This course deals with the important subject of constitutional torts, specifically 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and Bivens actions, whereby state, local and federal officials, as well as local governments, may be held liable in damages when they violate peoples' constitutional rights. Constitutional torts is a subject that is fascinating at both a theoretical and practical level. It raises deep issues of federalism and justice as well as real-world problems of how to make governments accountable to their citizens without undermining their effectiveness. Thousands of constitutional torts cases are filed annually, and they generate considerable controversy, e.g., Rodney King filed a section 1983 damages action against Los Angeles and certain of its police officers.

Those who should take this course include persons who expect to do federal litigation of any kind, as well as any students who hope to clerk for federal or state judges or work for state and local governments. Not only does the course deal with constitutional law but it also addresses federal courts issues, damages and injunctive relief and attorney's fees, among other important subjects.

We will be using my new casebook, Constitutional Torts (with Wells and Eaton)(1995) as well as readings from my anthology, A Section 1983 Civil Rights Anthology, both of which are published by Anderson Publishing Co. There will be an exam at the end of the course. Since we will meet 7-8 times for over three hours at a time, every class is quite important, particularly those near the beginning. The format will, I expect, generally be as follows: we'll discuss the reading for 2 or so hours and then spend the rest of the class working on a problem or hypothetical which I'll usually provide in advance, one that will make us apply what we have just been discussing in the readings. In that way both the theoretical and practical purposes of the course will be furthered.

For the first class, please read Chapter One in the casebook and two articles in the Anthology: mine at page 14 and Justice Blackmun's at page 37.

I look forward to this class with considerable enthusiasm. We will learn a great deal and have a good time doing so. If you have any questions please feel free to contact me in Boston until May 15 at 617.552.4648, or else send an email to me at Chicago-Kent which will be forwarded to me automatically while I am in Boston. My Boston College Law School address, again until May 15, is 885 Centre St, Newton, Mass. 02159. I'll be back in Chicago by Friday, May 19, 1995. My Chicago-Kent phone number is 312.906.5261.

Re: Summer 1995 Employment Status Survey

Date: April 1995

* What percentage of 1Ls have legal vs. non-legal summer jobs?
* How many Chicago-Kent students participate in study abroad programs?
* How do most 2Ls find their summer clerking jobs?
* When (what month) do most students find their summer positions?
* What’s the average hourly salary for summer clerking jobs?

If you are like most law students, you are anxious to know the answers to these questions! And you are especially interested in how Chicago-Kent students are faring in the summer employment marketplace.

We want to be able to provide the very best answers we can . . . and to do that, we need your help. That’s why we’re asking all first and second year Chicago-Kent students to complete the enclosed survey telling us how they are spending the summer of 1995.

If you’ve found a summer position (a paid OR volunteer position, legal OR non-legal), the survey asks you to share information about the type of job you’ve found and how you found the job. We’ve also asked you to share salary information, so that we have a better idea of today’s clerking salaries.

If you’re enrolled in summer school, a clinical program or a study abroad program, please let us know.

If you are still looking for a job, we need to know that you’re still looking. Tell us about the type of position you are seeking. Consider making an appointment with one of our staff members to discuss job search strategies. Be sure to regularly check the listings in the Career Services Office—summer listings come in both before and after finals!

Please be assured that the information you provide will remain confidential. It is used solely to compile group statistical information.

Help us help you! Complete the survey on the back of this memo and let us know how you are spending the summer. Please return the survey to the Career Services Office by Monday, May 8th.

We look forward to hearing about your summer plans! Thanks for your help!
