ADVANCED EXTERNSHIP PROGRAM: FALL 1997

Prospective Third Year Students Only:

Do you wish to develop your legal skills, gain practical legal experience in a specialized area of law with a corporation, firm or government agency, and make yourself more marketable to prospective employers upon graduation? If so, consider applying to the Advanced Externship Program for Fall Semester 1997.

The Advanced Externship Program is a 4-credit hour program consisting of a 3-credit hour fieldwork and a 1-credit hour classroom component. The program is open to students in their last two semesters of law school. For the fieldwork component, an extern is placed in a private or public, civil or criminal practice and is required to work a minimum of 15 hours a week at his/her designated placement. Externs interested in civil law may select to work under the supervision of general counsel in major corporations or under the supervision of designated teaching lawyers in well-known firms of special government agencies. Externs may specialize in such diverse legal areas as tax, commodities, securities, corporate, health care, medical malpractice, general corporate law, etc. Those interested in criminal law may select to work with designated supervising lawyers at the States Attorney’s Office, Public Defender’s Office, or the U.S. Attorney’s Office. Many externships offer students opportunities to obtain a 711 license and appear in court.

The accompanying classroom component consists of a 1-credit hour weekly class, entitled "Profession and Practice of Law."

More information about the program and an accompanying application form are available in the Law Offices Reception Area and the Career Services Office. Applications must be submitted to Ms. Carole Ross in room 612 by noon on Friday, March 28. All applicants must have scheduled and completed an interview with Professor Gross prior to turning in their applications. Should extern applicants outnumber the number of students who can be accepted into the program, students with at least one semester of Law Offices or LADR (Law Alternative Disputes Resolution program) will receive preference.

If you are interested in learning more about externship opportunities or in applying to the program, please see Professor Vivien Gross in room 617.

Keep Your Hard Disk In Shape

Besides backing up your files and scanning periodically for viruses, you should do regular maintenance on your hard drive. Two programs, SCANDISK and DEFRAG, which are included with MS-DOS (version 6.2 and up) and Windows 95, will help you to keep your data safe. If run regularly, they can also shorten the time it takes to load programs and documents.

SCANDISK is a utility that performs physical maintenance on your hard drive. When you run it, Scandisk will scan each sector of your hard drive, mark bad sectors so they are not used by files, and attempt to reconstruct damaged files. Here’s how to run Scandisk:

MS-DOS:

At the C:\ prompt, type CD DOS.

At the C:\DOS prompt, type SCANDISK. The Scandisk program will open. Follow the prompts on the screen to scan your hard drive. This process takes a while to complete; once Scandisk starts running on a drive, you should not interrupt the process.

Note: If you have run Doublespace or another disk doubling utility on your computer, Scandisk can take an exceptionally long time. If you want to run Scandisk on a Doublespace drive, you should consider setting it to run overnight.

Windows 95: From the Start bar, select Programs | Accessories | System Tools | Scandisk.

Follow the prompts on the screen to scan your hard drive. As mentioned above, this process can take some time, so be patient.

DEFRAG makes sure all your files (programs and data) are located together on your hard drive. Unlike the way we store files in a file cabinet, computers do not necessarily put all the pieces of your data next to each other. Having pieces of data and programs scattered all over the drive can slow your computer down, but running Defrag can rectify the problem. Defragmenting your disk takes some time, so do this when you can afford to be without your computer for a short while. To run Defrag:
MS-DOS:
Get to the C:\DOS prompt.
Type DEFRAG. The defragmentation utility will open.
Select the disk you want to defragment. DEFRAG will run, and you should see an improvement in file access.

Windows 95: From the Start bar, select Programs | Accessories | System Tools | Disk Defragger. Follow the prompts on the screen to defragment your hard drive.

IN LAW SCHOOL FOR PERSONAL REASONS
For some law students, the wish for a more just society is intense—and very personal. Tragic events seven years ago put one man in prison and motivated his brother to enter law school. Access FIND and type the following citation to retrieve Duran v. Thurman, a case in which a mugging victim stabbed his assailant and was then charged, tried and convicted of murder. A federal district court denied a writ of habeas corpus but the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit reversed. The appeals court found four instances of prosecutorial misconduct, one judicial error, and four instances of ineffective assistance of counsel—a total of nine errors at trial.

Have you ever heard of the "enclave clause" of the Constitution? Probably not. But this little known clause (Article I, Section 8) is at the heart of a lawsuit brought by the Commonwealth of Virginia that seeks to close down a prison run by the District of Columbia. Access FIND and type the following citation to read a short case whose footnotes will give you a history lesson on the Articles of Confederation.

FALL REGISTRATION FOR IN-HOUSE PROGRAMS

Fall 1997 Applications Are Now Available in Room 600 Due No Later than Monday, March 27

Students who would like to learn how to practice law while they are in law school should apply for the in-house clinical education program, LAW OFFICES. Applications are now available for the fall. The fall applications are due no later than March 27.

Students may apply for Law Offices after they have completed their first year of law school (current first years may apply for the fall 1997 semester). To be considered for a place, ALL students must complete and return a completed Law Offices application. Applications must be turned in to the Law Offices receptionist in Suite 600 by the March 27 deadline.

Students who have previously taken, who are now taking Law Offices, or who will take Law Offices during the summer 1997 semester (called Continuing Law Offices Students) and who submit their applications by the due date will be given preference in their same practice group if availability permits. Next, priority will be given to the top ten students on each first choice waiting list who did not turn down a place for Spring 1997, who were on the waiting list in the division they have marked as first choice, and who submitted their fall application by the due date. New students who have submitted their applications by the due date will be selected in the Law Offices lottery. The total number of available places during the fall semester is dependent upon the number of supervising attorneys in each practice group. The number of available new places is dependent upon the number of continuing students and has not yet been determined.
The Record March 17, 1997

The in-house program is comprised of two components. One is a three-credit fieldwork class graded on a pass/low pass/fail basis in which students work in practice groups on client cases or similar projects assigned to them by a supervising attorney. The fieldwork component also includes practice group lectures, supervising attorney conferences, section meetings, and various client interview experiences. The other is a graded classroom component for one credit.

There are five in-house practice groups from which to choose - employment discrimination/civil rights with some general practice, criminal defense, tax (prerequisites are Personal Income Tax and Tax Procedure), health with some family law, and mediation and other ADR procedures.

For more information, you may talk to the clinical professors who supervise the various practice groups - Professors Gonzalez (room 629) and Norton (room 623) for employment discrimination/civil rights with some general practice; Professors Kadish (room 613), Kling (room 625), and Thomas (room 609) for criminal defense; Professor Livingston (room 688) for tax; Professor Kentra (room 690) for mediation & other ADR procedures; and Professor Altman (room 611) for health with some family law. Professor Laser (room 631) is also available to answer your questions.

Two lawyers are serving on President Clinton’s 15-member National Bioethics Advisory Commission, which, on February 24, the president said will report to him within 90 days on the legal and ethical ramifications of the first successful cloning of a mammal. The lawyers are Alexander M. Capron, professor of law and medicine at the University of Southern California, and R. Alto Charo, who holds joint associate professorships in the University of Wisconsin medical and law schools.

WEST PALM BEACH, FLA.-- For the first time in the nation, a state court judge has ruled that an AIDS patient in the final stages of the disease has the right to end his life with the assistance of a physician. Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis ruled Jan. 31 that Charles Hall may receive a lethal injection of medication from his doctor, Cecil McIver, of Jupiter, FL. Hall v. Barry Krischer, CL-96-1504AF. The state of Florida immediately appealed the decision, effectively barring the doctor from helping Mr. Hall commit suicide. Asst. Attorney General Michael Gross said the case is headed for the Florida Supreme Court. Both doctor and patient had sued the state, saying an 1868 state law that criminalized assisted suicide was unconstitutional because it contradicted the state constitution’s provision for an explicit right to privacy. The ruling by Judge Davis, a Seminole County judge who entered the case because the calendars of Palm Beach County judges were full, noted that a state law allows terminally ill patients to request the withdrawal of life support systems. "Yet medications to produce a quick death, free of pain and protracted agony, are prohibited," the judge wrote. "This is a difference without distinction. In those cases where a competent, terminal patient chooses to hasten his death, the state has little interest in preventing this type of suicide."

BOSTON--A dentist broke federal law by refusing to treat an HIV-positive patient in his office, an appellate court ruled March 5. The 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a lower court ruling that Dr. Randon Bragdon of Bangor, Maine, violated the Americans With Disabilities Act when he refused to fill a cavity for a woman in his office in September 1994. It is believed to be the first time a federal appeals court has ruled that people who have tested positive for HIV, the virus that causes AIDS, are covered under the disabilities act.

FACULTY CURRICULAR SUGGESTIONS

A survey was distributed to the full-time faculty asking:

(1) In your opinion, which elective courses should every student take, regardless of his or her particular areas of interest.

(2) If a student is interested in specializing in a particular substantive area, which elective courses should the student take.

The responses are set forth below.

Susan Adams, Visiting Associate Professor of Law & Director of Writing Services office: 821; extension: 65294

Every student should take: Alternative Dispute Resolution or Negotiations, Evidence, Remedies, First Amendment, Federal Courts.

Specialization - Public Interest Law: Disability Law, School Law or Family Law, Administrative Law, Interviewing and Counseling, Alternative Dispute Resolution.

Lori Andrews, Professor of Law
office: 743; extension: 65359

Of the listed courses, there are none that I feel all students absolutely must take. Students interested in specializing in health care law should take the Health Care Law class. The additional courses they take would depend a lot on what their future plans are. For those who want to work in hospitals, corporate law issues would be important. For those who want to be involved with pharmaceutical companies, patent law would be important. I think rather than trying to develop an all-purpose list for health law students, it will be important for me and other faculty members teaching in this field to make it clear that we are available to help students choose courses that fit their interests.

I don't think there is any single course in the curriculum which every student should take. Rather, students should take a substantial number of 'traditional' i.e., doctrinal, courses in substantive areas, both to familiarize themselves with the differing ways in which law affects conduct and to master the art of legal analysis.
